THE TABERNACLE

Missionaries Make Some Interesting Reports.

PRES. GEO. Q. CANNON SPEAKS | THE STORY AS SENT OUT.

The Spirit of Revelation-By it the Church Has Always Been Led-Order of Specession of Presidency.

The services at the Tabernacle yesterday afternoon were presided over by President C. W. Penrose. The choir sang the opening hymn, "Hail to the brightness of Zion's glad morning." Prayer was offered by Bishop Joseph R. Morgan.

The choir sang, "Lord, thou wilt hear nen when I pray." The first speaker was Elder Henry H. Greensides, who expressed himself as being exceedingly happy to be home again among friends and kindred. He had been absent for two years on a mis-sion to the Sandwich Islands and Australia. He labored in the former place for ten months, and the remainder of his mission was spent in Australia. Elder Greensides related many interesting experiences incident to his mission, among which was his meeting with an among which was his meeting with an old pioneer, who had stood guard at Carthage jail at the martyrdom of the Prophet Joseph Smith, whose divine mission he believed in devotedly. The man's name was Nathan Young, and he was one of the 500 stalwart men who marched to Mexico to fight in the Mexican war. Young subsequently settled in California and searched for gold a short time, when he embarked for Aus-tralia to continue his search of the yelow metal. Elder Greensides stated that he succeeded in prevailing on the old ploneer to come to Utah with him, they both having arrived in Utah last week. The speaker related another incident in which he held a conversation with a clergyman who refused to let him speak in the meeting house, talked of offering him poison to drink, seeking after a sign, and threatened to "fight the Elders to a finish," no matter what their message might be. Elder Greensides told him that if he lifted his voice against the truth the hand of the Lord would be heavy upon him. Not long after this, the Elders returning o the place where the clergymen offi-lated, learned that he had lost his position in consequence of an affection of the throat, by which he lost the power to preach. This occurred after he had been around among the people warning them against the Elders. Elder Green.

ides bore testimony to the truth of The next speaker was Elder Noah S. Pond of Idaho, who had just returned from a twenty-seven months' mission in Sweden. He stated that the opposition against the missionaries in Sweden was quite bitter, it being well nigh impossible in some places to obtain a public building of any kind, in which to hold a meeting. The meetings were held, therefore, in private houses. He said the Saints in Sweden are very zealous and faithful, that it was no uncommon thing for men and women to walk from six to twenty miles with the Elders in the most inclement weather, in order to attend a meeting. He eulogized the people of Sweden for their hospitality and kindly disposition, and their forbearance toward the brethren, while learning their language. Elder Pond related instances of the guiding hand of the Lord. One of them was this: this: With two other Elders, he had promised to visit the home of a man in Sweden, but toward the time of the appointment one of them could not accompany him. The wife of this man, who had never seen any of the Elders, saw these two Elders in a dream, and so perfectly were they represented to her, that she described their features and complexion to her husband, and when the Elders came she recognized them at once as if they had been old Elder Pond gave particulars of a long journey made by him and his compan-ion on foot, through forests where the trails forked frequently, and they were guided aright to the place where they had promised to hold meeting and did not know the way. He bore a strong testimony to the power of God manifested in missionary work and expressed his joy in having been privileged to labor in the good cause. SPIRIT OF REVELATION. President George Q. Cannon was the concluding speaker. He said he took great satisfaction in listening to the reports of the missionaries; that there was nothing more interesting than to hear how the work of God is progressing. He read from the Doctrine and Covenants section VIII., v. 2, 3, which explains the "spirit of revelation," and proceeded to show that this had been with the Church from the beginning. It was that which guided Elder Pond and his companion through the forest. It was with all the faithful Elders and it was the privilege of all the Saints to enjoy it. Revelations for the Church, however, by way of commandment, were to come through the one man, standing at the head, who was appointed of God and upheld by the Church for that purpose. President Cannon showed the order of succession from the time of the Prophet Joseph Smith down to the present. The Twelve suc-ceeding, when the First Presidency was dissolved through the death of the President, and the senior Apostle presiding by virtue of his calling and authority in the Priesthood. The Twelve were equal in all their decisions the First Presidency in the absence the latter. The speakeri dwelt on the numer-us instances in which the leader of he Church had been led by the spirit f revelation in emergencies and ex-lained that where that spirit manifested anything, it became clear and without mist of doubts. He advised he Saints not to enter upon any pro-ect where darkness and doubt were n their minds concerning it. The pirit of revelation made things plain and clear. This spirit is a higher gift than that of seeing angels or other manifestations. Every person ordained to an office has a right to the spirit of that calling and it will always lead him right when he harkens to it. In the smallest details of life it will guide those who possess it and are faithful to its promptings. President Cannon's discourse was ren the Deseret News. The cheir sang, "Let the Mountains shout for joy.' The congregation arose and sang the doxology. The benediction was pro-nounced by Patriarch John Smith.

A QUEER STORY FROM NEBRASKA

Claimed that Currie the Outlaw Was Not Killed.

Burial of Supposed Bandit Was Par of a Fake Scheme to Get Heward.

A story has been sent out from Chadron, Neb., to one of the New York papers, stating that George Currie, allas "Flat-nosed George," the outlaw, was not the man who was killed by the sheriff's posse on Green River last April, The burial of the supposed outlaw, it is claimed, was part of a fake scheme to get the reward offered for Currie, and the seizing of an opportunity by Currie's folks to put a stop to the hunt for the black sheep of the family. The story sent out from Currie's old home in Nebraska is as follows:

"An undercurrent sensation in Chadron has come to the surface and gossip is all agog over the recent burial of George Currie, the Hole-in-the-wall bandit of Wyoming and leader of the Union Pacific train robbery a year ago. "On April 18 last a cattle rustler was killed by a sheriff's posse near Thompson's, Utah, while caught in the act of blotching the brand of a settler's herd, and the news was immediately heraided that the dead thief was the notorious that the dead thief was the notorious Currie. George Currie was formerly a Chadron grocery clerk and his relatives are now living here. They were notified of the killing but did not go after the body at the time.

"About three weeks later the father went to the scene in Utah and had the body taken up for identification. He telegraphed back to his family here to procure a burial place, and the telegram contained inference that it was gram contained inference that it was 'In due course of time the father arrived with the body. Arrangements had been made to have it taken to undertaking rooms, but instead it was taken to the home of George Currie's sister, and a few hours later conveyed to the cemetery and buried, without neighbors or friends being accorded the privilege of viewing the remains. The family presumed to recognize the body as that of their brother, but offered as an excuse that it was in such a poorly preserved condition that they preferred not to let it lie in state

"Since the burial, several detectives representing the railroad, express com-panies and the Wyoming Stock assolation have been in Chadron endeavoring to unearth evidence to either con-firm or deny the story that it was the real leader of the Hole-in-the-wall gang Wyoming cattle rustlers who was "Rumor is also current that friends close to the family have confided the secret that the dead body was not that of George Currie. From the first news of the killing many in Chadron have questioned the authenticity of the statement that it was Currie who was shot. The actions of some of his rela-tives gave rise to this suspicion, and now some who are in a position to know, allege that it was a scheme on the part of detectives to recover $6,000 reward offered by the railroad and express companies for the capture of Currie dead or alive, and that his relatives, except for his escape and to stop, the eager for his escape and to stop the hunt that is being persistently made for him by hired detectives, grasped the situation and accepted the dead body of a stranger.

"No direct proof can be had that the body the Curries buried was not that of the outlaw, though it is generally believed that it was not, and that the family shrewdly accepted the scheme of the officers for the reward and carried out their part of it to perfection.
"The whole affair is considered of fiasco in central Wyoming, the ren-dezvous of the outlaw gang."

CURRIE WAS IDENTIFIED.

Persons, who claimed to have known Currie, positively identified the outlaw while the body was held at Thompson's. Those who were positive it was Cur-rie are Frank Murray, representing the Union Pacific; William Storey, who came from Cheyenne for the purpose of adding his testimony; George B. Bissel Denver, who knew Currie's dead ody from the fact that he had been in his employ for several years as a cow-boy in Wyoming, and John Devere, who recognized the remains as those of Cur-rie, the train robber who breakfasted with the sheepherder a few days after the robbery and after one of the Wyoming posse that took up the chase was killed. Whether the Utah officers secured their reward for capturing Currie dead is not known. On May 8, John Currie, the aged father of George Currie, arrived at Thompson's and had the dead body disinterred. He identified the body as his son's and had it shipped beach to Chedron for fival interment. back to Chadron for final interment.

IRENE CRAFT LOCATED.

A little girl by the name of Irene Craft disappeared from her home about a week ago and all efforts upon the part of her parents to find her proved fruitless. Last night she was located by the police on Sixth South, in com-pany with Pearl Kessler and Clara Carney, the two girls who became so well known in the exxamination case in the police station some time ago.
When found the girls were in the company of W. Donelson and Dick Claypool, two messenger boys who are supposed to have put up money for the girls. The Craft girl and the two boys were taken to the station. The Craft girl tells a strange story.

She says that she stayed out late at the Salt Palace on last Sunday night and was afraid to go home. She says she spent one night in a hay stack and slept in a loft two nights, and a fourth night was spent in the open air under an apple tree. She is 13 years of age. BURNED BY POWDER.

Five Boys Lose Their Eyelashes-Faces are Also Blistered.

Alma Amundsen, Henry Amundsen, Owen Reynolds, Arthur Hanson and Daniel Reynolds, were playing with powder in Social Hall alley Saturday evening when a can of the powder was accidentally ignited, with the result that the five boys lost their eye lashes, and received several severe burns in the face.
